

Whooping Cough.
The quick relief afforded by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in cases of whooping cough, makes it a favorite with the mothers of small children. It liquefies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, keeps the tough loose and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough and always with perfect success. There is no danger whatever from the disease when it is freely given. It contains nothing injurious and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Noyes Drug Store, Norway; Shurtlett's, South and West Paris. 16-19

Jack Harkaway's Schooldays

By BRACEBRIDGE HEMYNG

He went away, and Jack said to Emily: "I say, Emmy, open the door just a little bit and sing out loud, Mr. Crawford's wanted; something's happened at Pomona House, and his wife's at the door. He's to make haste."
Jack retreated to the staircase and half way up watched the expected sport through the banisters.
Emily knuckled at the drawing room door, then opened it and delivered the message just as Jack had told her.
"My wife! Dear me! What can have happened?"
"Nothing serious, I hope?" said Mr. Bedington.
"I hope not, indeed. You will excuse my unavoidable absence for a brief space?"
"By all means. Pray ask your wife in."
"Thank you kindly," answered the principal.
Mr. Crawford drew back the door and rushed out. His feet caught in the rope, and he pitched forward, head first into the outstretched bag of soot. He made frantic efforts to remain in the principal.

legs, and when he did he was as black as his hat. Coughing, sneezing and trembling with rage, he tried to get the soot out of his eyes, mouth, ears and nose. During this interval Jack slipped downstairs. He cut away the cord and entered the drawing room, meeting his father in the middle of the room. The latter had been roused by the noise outside and was going to see what it was about.
"Did you send for me?" asked Jack.
"Yes, my-boy. What's all that noise outside?"
"I think it's a drunken sweep."

"A sweep! I won't have such disgraceful proceedings in my house. Open the front door, Jack!"
Jack ran to the front door. Mr. Crawford did look like a drunken sweep.
"Hello, you fellow, what's the meaning of this?" cried Mr. Bedington.
In vain Mr. Crawford tried to speak; he could only splutter out a mouthful of soot.
"Get out! Get out! I'll teach drunken vagabonds like you a lesson!"
As he spoke he kicked the unlucky principal of Pomona House. Kick followed kick, and he ran toward the front door to save himself further pain.
"Go you go!" said Jack, giving him a parting kick as he passed him.
"The sounder!" said Mr. Bedington, looking around him. "What next, I wonder?"
Little Emily had sunk down on a mat in a corner and was trying in vain to stifle her laughter.
"What a funny girl that is," observed Mr. Bedington. "She's always laughing."

"Yes," said Jack, and he burst into a loud guffaw.
"It seems catching."
"Yes," it's that sweep. He looked so dirty. There he is on the lawn, shaking his fist at you. He looks as if he were going to sly stones at the windows. He's talking and going on now. See, he's on to the garden now!"
"So he is," answered Mr. Bedington, remarking that the supposed sweep was in earnest conversation with the gardener, who had just emerged from one of the shrubberies.
Mr. Bedington walked down the steps, intending to order his man to instantly remove the sweep.
"Emmy!" cried Jack.
"Oh, you'll kill me! I know you will!" she answered. "See how I've been laughing. I am quite ill!"
"It'll be all found out directly. You'd better come with me into the drawing room, and we'll sit down and look over the album or the stereoscopic slides. Of course, if we are questioned, we know nothing about it."
"Of course not, Jack dear," replied Emily.
They went into the drawing room and sat down on the sofa, with their arms round one another's waist, and amused themselves with a book, taking a sly peep out of the window now and then to see what was going on.

The sweeps meantime came after their sack and wondered how it could have burst. However, they tied it up and swept up the mess and retired, while Mr. Bedington and the victim of Jack's latest joke were in the garden.
Turning to the gardener, Mr. Crawford said: "Hold me tight. Don't let him come near me. I shall do him a mischief if he does. He has dared to kick me from his doors—me, the principal of Pomona House!"
"What does he say, Ford?" inquired Mr. Bedington.
"He says he's a gentleman and his name's Crawford, sir, and if he gets at you he'll kill you for kicking of him," replied the gardener.
"Can it be possible? Why, yes; the features are the features of Mr. Crawford, but the complexion!"
"Is that the result of this diabolical outrage, sir?" interrupted Mr. Crawford.
"My wife is not here. It was all a trick. I fell over a rope and pitched into the soot, which was prepared for me."

"Not with my knowledge. I hope you will acquit me of blame. Come to my dressing room. You shall have a warm bath, and I can lend you some things to put on. What a strange occurrence! It must have been Jack's doing."
"Not a doubt of it, my dear sir," replied Mr. Crawford. "I know him of old. He's always up to his tricks." They walked toward the house, and when they had passed the window Jack popped his head out and exclaimed: "Hello, boys! There goes another guy!"
Mr. Bedington looked in at the drawing room door and said in a stern voice: "Jack, I want you upstairs in my dressing room presently. Bring up the sherry, will you? It is in the chiffonier."
"All right," answered Jack.
In about ten minutes Mr. Crawford emerged from his bath, looking comfortable, and he was just putting on some clothes the valet had laid out for him when Jack and his father came in.
"We have brought you some wine," said Mr. Bedington.
"Ah, wine—sherry—very good!" said the schoolmaster, smacking his lips.
"Jack says he knows nothing about it," continued the boy's father. "It's very odd. The careless fellows must have laid their sack down thoughtlessly, and you have the misfortune to fall into it. However, try a glass of wine." The principal smiled and took a brimming wineglass tendered him by Jack and gazed fondly at it as he said: "Life is a ship tossed upon a stormy ocean. You, my young friend—you are like a young bear who has all his troubles to come. Your health, Mr. Bedington."

He drank the wine off at a gulp and turned pale. Then he drew a long face and put his hand upon the region of his stomach.
"Dear me! What a peculiar taste! Acid is the word for it. I should have said it was vinegar if I had not had your assurance to the contrary."
Mr. Bedington took up the glass and sniffed it. It was vinegar.
"Can I have made a mistake?" said Jack in a tone of apology. "Yes, in my hurry I must have taken up the vinegar bottle instead of that which contained sherry. I ask the gentleman's pardon, I'm sure."
"Go away!" cried his father angrily. "Get out of my sight or upon my word I shall be tempted to box your ears."

We receive from the Waterville Sentinel a very attractive booklet issued in commemoration of their 25th anniversary, which was celebrated March 3d. The booklet is eight pages 9x11x1 with neat tea colored cover, and contains illustrations of the three story brick home of the Sentinel, large pictures of Hon. Chas. F. Johnson, Hon. Cyrus W. Davis and Thomas F. Murphy, the president, treasurer and editor respectively, views of the several editorial rooms, the press room, the day and night composing crew. One of the cuts represents the suburban city and day editors at work, the latter being our friend, D. Crommet Clark for years employed in the ADVERTISER office. In the year the Sentinel has forced a way to the front rank of Maine dailies, and fills acceptably a niche in the newspaper world of Maine, especially covering its local field with apparent thoroughness and success.

Under a law passed by the 1903 legislature which provides for the appointment of a competent physician in each county to act as an examiner of insane convicts in the county jail to the end that such convicts might be removed to the insane department of the State Prison on Gov. Cobb has named C. N. Bisbee of Rumford for Oxford county.

Mrs. Nubride (excitedly): "Oh, John, please to telephone for me, quick!"
Mr. Nubride: "My dearest, what has happened?"
Mrs. Nubride: "Why, I'm taking a correspondence course in cooking and the cake I made is running all over the oven. I want them quick to find out what to do."

Get SCOTT'S Emulsion
When you go to a drug store and ask for Scott's Emulsion you know what you want; the man knows you ought to have it. Don't be surprised, though, if you are offered something else. Wines, cordials, extracts, etc., of cod liver oil are plentiful but don't imagine you are getting cod liver oil when you take them. Every year for thirty years we've been increasing the sales of Scott's Emulsion. Why? Because it has always been better than any substitute for it.

Spring Catarrh.
Changeable Weather Causes Disease. Breathe Hyomei and Cure Catarrh.
The changeable weather of Spring with its warm days and cold nights is responsible for a great increase in the number of cases of catarrh. It is here that Hyomei, the only guaranteed treatment for catarrh that cures without stomach dosing, should be used in every home.
For more than a century physicians have been sending persons suffering from catarrh to Egypt, Colorado, or some other place, where the pure, healing air would cure the disease. For one person who could take this trip, thousands have been compelled to stay at home and continue their daily toil. To these sufferers who could not change their climatic conditions, we offer Hyomei, a method by which pure air may be breathed through the patient's own nostrils, a method by which the patient's own remedies for the cure of catarrh, can be inhaled by every sufferer in his or her home. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, its healing, volatile, antiseptic fragrance reaches the lungs and the passages as no stomach dosing possibly can do. It gives immediate relief and makes lasting cures.
The complete outfit, consisting of the inhaler, medicine dropper, and bottle of Hyomei, costs only one dollar, and extra bottles of Hyomei, if needed, can be procured for fifty cents.
Proof that the Hyomei treatment will do all that is claimed for it is found in the guarantee under which Hyomei Store sell it, an agreement to pay back the price, if the purchaser can say that Hyomei has not given satisfaction.

The trustees of Robinson female seminary at Exeter, N. H., have elected Harlan Melville Bisbee of Rumford Falls as principal, to succeed Prof. George N. Cross, who resigns after 22 years' service. There were 20 applicants for the place. Mr. Bisbee was born in West Sumner in 1875, and graduated from Bowdoin college in 1898. For five years he was principal of the high school at Brewer.

Young Woman Drowned.

While four young women were walking up the dry bed of a sluiceway through which logs were shot from the Androscoggin river into the canal, Saturday, at Rumford Falls, some one opened the flood gate, and the rushing water swept Lottie Marer, aged 19 years, of Fall River, Mass., into the canal, where she was drowned. Mary Barrett and Hannah Kearney clung to the sides of the sluiceway and managed to keep their heads above water until rescued. Kate Reynolds climbed up one side of the sluiceway and jumped to the ground on the outside, a distance of ten feet.

PARIS HILL.

Some Moving.

And there is more moving. Fred W. Shaw has bought the J. S. Mason place on Tremont street. Jefferson Chapter, O. E. S., visited Granite Chapter of West Paris, last Thursday evening, and conferred the degrees upon four candidates. A fine supper and very enjoyable time was had.

BUCKFIELD.

It has been worse.

May day was cold, but we have seen colder. I think Memorial day 23 years ago would match it well for cold, and it also snowed some. Thirteen years come the 22nd of May when we woke up with 10 inches of snow on the ground, but it was not very cold. My garden truck was planted.

Fifty years, more or less, a cousin from eastern Massachusetts, who had attended the general court at Boston came down after legislature had dissolved, to visit his backwoods relatives. The 10th of May, I took him from Livermore to Chesterville Mills on wheels. There was much ice and snow—no drift we had to go around. On returning, the 11th, it was shoveled out. In crossing Hillman's ferry, being a high wind, a full came, and the ferryman came over. On returning, about midway a gale came up, the ferryman lay upon the ropes, reaching over the side of the boat and hung for dear life. The spray blew over myself and horse and froze upon us. We got over, finally, all right, thanks to Providence and a very safe horse. That was a time when we had many excuses to make to our relatives and guests.

A. W. Horton of Norway was in town last week.

A May ball came off May 1st, at Ne-zinscott hall.

E. B. Austin of South Paris has been in town recently.

Will Allen, G. W. Tilton, Dr. Heald, Thomas Record and Dr. A. E. Cole have been supplying their neighbors with smelts taken from Annasaguntacook.

Rev. A. W. Felt came Saturday, preaching at the M. E. church, Sunday. He doubtless is a man of courage, with the outlook before him, for the sound of the grinding law and the base of the church is in such a condition that it is untenable.

WEST SUMMER.

Agnes E. Bonney, only daughter of Victoria and the late Wm. T. Bonney, passed away April 29, after several weeks of illness with consumption. She was nearly 34 years of age and had been in poor health a long time. She was a member of the West Summer Grange and an interested member of the Snowbound Literary Society. She was a kind hearted and young lady of undoubted character and will be much missed by her friends of whom she had many. The funeral was held in the Universalist church, May 2, at 10 a. m. Rev. Mr. Little officiating. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful. A mother and two brothers have the sympathy of the community.

Mr. Prince of Auburn has been here looking for horses.

Mrs. Burgess and sister, Mrs. Harper of Sumner visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Farrar last week.

Charles Newell and wife of South Paris, formerly neighbors here, came up to attend the funeral of Aggie Bonney.

A man in town recently came to our village leaving his wagon in one place and putting up his horse at another. After finishing his business he takes his horse, when he supposes, and goes to the house, when he is, on removing the blanket the horse was minus the harness. He left it, harness and blanket all right, and discovered that he had taken another man's horse which he exchanged for his own. The laugh was on him but treat of peanuts settled it and he was allowed to depart in peace.
